THRIVING ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER CHILDREN'S STRATEGY

Focused on the first 2000 days - led by families, community and culture

Thriving children, strong in culture and learning

Data shapes services

Strong, capable and connected leadership guides community priorities

Outcomes

Communities codesign and lead investment decisions

Families are heard, respected and shape decisions

Culturally capable workforce with strong leadership

Systems levers

Culturally connected and integrated services

First Nations Early Years Pathway Officers

Invest in Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander run Early learning settings

Increase funds for support services

Indigenous data sovereignty

Build community knowledge and skills

Culturally appropriate and ethical

Intergenerational knowledge sharing

Cultural leadership and governance

Strengthen leadership capacity

Networks, connection, mentoring, shared learning

Community led decision making

The work we do together

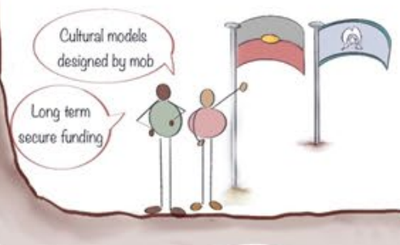
Self determination in investment

Communities lead investment

Build governance capability

Dedicated funds

Codesign funding models and services



Child family and community voice

Place based initiatives

Culturally safe codesign

Yarning circles and community forums

Best practice models

Culturally strong and skilled workforce

Culturally responsive ECEC training for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff

Culturally responsive and trauma informed training- all child and family services

Communities of practice

Principles ground us in culture and community

- Culture at the centre
- Self determination leads the way
- The system must change not families
- Healing is a part of thriving
- Work together with respect
- We all have a role

© Queensland Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Child Protection Peak Limited